

Jeff Zanelotti arrived in North Carolina by way of Long Island, NY in January 2024. He is an award-nominated comic book creator, writer, and artist who has appeared at major comic book conventions for years.

Jeff's art style combines western comic book foundations with Japanese manga influences to create something unique. His first comic, "The Troublemakers," was published in 2020 and followed by the critically-acclaimed ongoing series "Accidental Renegades." This book sold out at New York ComicCon and resulted in Jeff's nomination as Best Artist for 2023 by the Long Island Press.

Jeff continues to produce independent comic books and is eager to bring his stories to a new audience.